We're uniting natural medicine

Natural Medicine Alliance Australia's (NMAA) vision is that Australians have access to the best possible natural medicines sector. NMAA strives to strengthen the natural medicines sector by representing the interests of consumers and practitioners in the delivery of natural healthcare.

A united and strong natural health sector

The sector needs to unite so that it can become more influential and to safeguard the right of Australians to access, learn and practice natural medicine.

NMAA seeks to unite different natural modalities, practitioners and groups.

Protection of tradition and choice

Natural medicine is well established and has long and continuous historical use for thousands of years.

NMAA seeks to preserve people's right to choose natural medicine as part of their healthcare mix.

Co-regulation

Natural medicine is considered low risk. NMAA endorses a model of regulation where the sector administers arrangements, in partnership with government who provide the legislative backing.

Wellness and active prevention

Natural medicine has an important role in helping the community with the health problems of our era.

NMAA believes an approach where natural medicine and conventional medicine work in cooperation for active prevention and holistic care.
